BUREAU RECOMMENDS SUB-COMMISSIONS TO CONTINUE WORK

"HAT TRICK" BY PAINE FOR WARWICKSHIRE

James Langridge Takes
13 For 108.

SUSSEX BEAT SOMERSET

Hopwood's Century Helps
Lancashire Win

London, To-day.
A "hat trick" was included in Paine's 5 for 65 against Glamorgan at Cardiff yesterday, but Warwickshire had to be content with only five points.

Sussex, aided by brilliant bowling by James Langridge (13 for 108) and a century by Ted Bowley beat Somerset to record their tenth win of the season, while Essex, the other leading Southern contender, suffered a reverse at the hands of Kent.

A dashing century by Hopwood enabled Lancashire to force an innings victory at Leicester. This was the "Red Rose" country's fifth win of the season.

OXFORD ALL OUT 164

All-India Test Player
Takes 4 For 54

London, To-day.
Oxford lost their three remaining wickets for the addition of 38 runs at Lord's yesterday, and rain did not allow Cambridge to bat in the 95th annual match.

The game will be concluded to-day.
Scores as tabulated by Reuter: Oxford 164 (D. P. Walker, 40, J. Jehangir Khan 4 for 54).

Results as cabled by Reuter were as follow:

County Championship.

Sussex beat Somerset by 5 wickets at Taunton.
Somerset 149 (Langridge (Jas.) 6 for 44).
188 (Langridge (Jas.) 7 for 64).
Sussex 313 for 9 dec. (Bowley 134, Young 6 for 82).
25 for 5.

Lancashire beat Leicester by an innings and 85 runs at Leicester.
Lanc. 455 for 9 dec. (Hopwood 140).
Leicester 216 and 155.

Kent took first innings points from Essex at Folkestone.
Essex 252 and 190 for 8 (Freeman 5 for 56).
Kent 329 (B. H. Valentine 127).

Warwickshire took first innings points from Glamorgan at Cardiff.
Glamorgan 228 and 234 for 9 (Paine 5 for 65).
Warwick 358 for 4 dec. (Kilner 145).

Derbyshire beat Worcester by an innings and 234 runs at Chesterfield.
Derby 513 for 8 dec. (Worthington 200 not out).
Worcester 83 (Mitchell 5 for 20).
195 (Mitchell 6 for 44).

Yorkshire beat Northampton by an innings and 157 runs at Leeds.
Yorkshire 349 for 7 dec. (Leyland 182).
Northants 68 (Verity 7 for 35).
125 (Verity 6 for 67).

Gloucester beat Surrey by an innings and 192 runs at Bristol.
Gloucester 464 for 5 dec. (Hammond 150, Binfield 181 not out).
Surrey 44 (Hammond 6 for 26).
818 (Gregory 164, Goddard 5 for 87).

PRIVATE DISARMAMENT TALKS IN PARIS

Mr. Arthur Henderson's Tour Of European Capitals

London, To-day.
Mr. Arthur Henderson, President of the Disarmament Conference, yesterday opened disarmament conversations in Paris with M. Daladier, the French Premier, and Paul Boncour, Foreign Minister. It is understood that the discussion centred on international control of armaments including those manufactured in private factories.

As authorised by the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference, Mr. Henderson will later hold similar conversations in other European capitals.—British Wireless Service.

U.S. DOLLAR RECOVERS TO 465 3/4

New York Banks Sell
Sterling.

EXCHANGE MARKET "VERY NERVOUS"

New York, To-day.

A marked improvement in the American dollar in relation to the pound was indicated yesterday, the closing price being 465 3/4. After opening at 4.80 it steadily advanced to 4.71 1/2, gathering further strength in the afternoon.

Several New York banks reported to have sold sterling, and although the amounts are relatively small, they affected the rate owing to the thinness of the market. The market is very nervous.

Authorities on Wall Street regard the weakening of the dollar on Monday as too rapid, and this view was reflected in the lack of selling yesterday.—Reuter.

BASEBALL LEADERS BEATEN

Yankees Advance In Pennant Race.

New York, To-day.

The Giants sustained a check yesterday when they lost to the Cardinals by a 2 to 1 margin, but the Yankees advanced a step in the race for the American League pennant when they nipped out the Browns while the Senators lost in Chicago.

CONFERENCE TO CONTINUE
ALL POSSIBLE WORK

London, To-day.

It now seems clear that the general opinion among the delegates to the World Economic Conference is that there are a sufficient number of subjects to occupy the attention of the delegates, with some hope of agreement within the next fortnight.

It is anticipated that the Plenary Session of the Conference may then be convened and its further work adjourned, if necessary, until autumn.

The most important of several of yesterday's private meetings was that of the Conference Bureau, which had before it the report of the two Sub-Commissions of Monetary Commission of the Conference. The first of these is dealing with immediate financial measures and other with permanent financial measures.

After a brief sitting of the Bureau, under the Presidency of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, the report was adopted.

It recommended that the Sub-Commission on immediate measures for financial reconstruction should proceed in the first instance, to the discussion of the subject of indebtedness, and that the second Sub-Commission, dealing with permanent measures, should take up the resolution adopted by its sub-committees on central bank co-operation and on the creation of central banks in certain countries where they do not exist, and pursue through its sub-committees the examination of the question of silver and other subjects on the agenda which may, by general agreement, be considered suitable for discussion.

The Sub-Commission on subsidies for merchant shipping, in conformity with the decision of the Bureau, yesterday decided to appoint a Drafting Committee to draw up a report embodying the different points of view put forward during its discussions.

The Drafting Committee is composed of representatives of France, Italy, Japan, Norway, the United Kingdom and the United States.—British Wireless Service.

LOCAL DOLLAR IMPROVES.

Silver's Slight Rise.

The local dollar is quoted at 1/4 1/2 to-day, an advance of 1/4 on yesterday's closing price.

Silver prices, spot and forward, improved 1/16 quotations, being quoted this morning at 17-15/16 and 18-1/16 respectively.

The London on New York cross-rate was quoted at $44.74 1/2 yesterday, as against $44.73 1/2 on Monday, while the New York on London rate advanced to $44.63 from $44.60.

PETROL PRICES REDUCED

Effect Of Lower
U.S. Dollar.

25 CENTS A GALLON CUT
IN HONG KONG

A 25 cents-per gallon cut in petrol prices was made by the principal companies operating in the Colony this morning. Texaco, Socony and Shell spirits are now on sale at $1.05 per gallon.

Officials on the companies concerned are reticent regarding the cause of the sudden reduction, but the favourable local exchange rate in relation to the American dollar is pointed out as a primary factor.

Emphatic denial that the action was prompted by the possibility of a menace from Soviet concerns was made by the firms.

Reductions have been in force in Shanghai for some time. That the reduction of Shell petrol to $1.05 came into force at Canton last week, was officially denied this afternoon by a representative of the Asiatic Petroleum Company.

He said there could be no comparison in the prices of petrol between Canton and Hong Kong as petrol was sold in Canton on the American gallon, which was only four fifths of an Imperial gallon.

The price of Shell petrol in Canton last week is officially given as 84 cents Hong Kong currency.

LITTLE GIRL DROWNED.

Falls Into Pool At Shumshuipo.

While playing beside a deep pool near her home at No. 30 Pak Hai Village, Shumshuipo, yesterday, Chow Hi, a Chinese girl, aged 11, accidentally fell into the pool and was drowned.

The body was recovered by the police and removed to the Kowloon Mortuary.

The police at Shumshuipo, state that the pool is about five feet deep and that it is one of the many to be found in the villages at Shumshuipo. No attempt is made to fill in these pools, which are replenished by the rains.

T. V. SOONG TO CONFER WITH MUSSOLINI TO-DAY

Chinese Finance Minister Stops
Over In Rome

Rome, To-day.
Mr. T. V. Soong, the Chinese Finance Minister, arrived here to-day at 7.10 p.m. After a brief stay he will continue his journey to China.

Mr. Soong travelled by special train from the frontier and was met at the station by Signor Suvich and Signor Alcide.

Mr. Soong will see Premier Benito Mussolini to-day.—Reuter.

WORKERS' FLATS IN LONDON

Three Rooms At 15/-
A Week.

PRINCE OPENS TWO BLOCKS
ON HIS OWN ESTATE

London, To-day.

The Prince of Wales yesterday afternoon opened two blocks of London's most up-to-date workers' flats, which have been erected on waste ground on his own Duchy of Cornwall estate at Kennington.

The buildings, which are regarded as a model of their kind, are in the form of a square with balconies round each floor, and gardens in the centre.

The design, which was adopted at the special instance of the Prince, includes tiled fireplaces, hot water in the bathrooms, and washable walls.

Three-room flats will be rented at 15s. per week and larger flats at £1 per week.

The block of buildings will house 92 families, and the front will be flooded at night.—British Wireless Service.

TOKYO PLOTS EXPOSED.

Police Find Evidence.

Tokyo, To-day.

Following the arrests on Monday night and Tuesday morning, the police are reported to have discovered a number of tons of benzene last night, stored in a hiding-place with quantities of inflammatory hand-bills, banners, and other incriminating evidence, strengthening the belief that assassinations and incendiary had been planned, in spite of the protestations of innocence on the part of the arrested persons.—Reuter.

NANKING CRUISERS SAIL NORTH

Leave Castle Peak
This Morning.

SEARCHING FOR REBEL
WARSHIPS

The three Nanking cruisers, the Yacheng, the Hai Yung and the Hai Chau, which anchored off Castle Peak yesterday afternoon, left Hong Kong early this morning. The warships were seen passing Lama Island at about 9 a.m., travelling due North.

H.M.S. Wishart which was yesterday lying close to the Chinese warships at Castle Peak, has returned to her normal duties.

The Yat-sen, the Hai Yung and the Hai Chau left Woosung on the morning of July 7, on instructions from the Ministry of Navy of the Nanking Government, in order to spot the movements of the three Tseingtau deserters.

No news of the rebel cruisers, the Hai Chi, the Hai Shen and the Cheng Ho (formerly known as the Chao Ho) is available, but it is supposed that on hearing of the approach of the Nanking's vessels, they sailed further up the Pearl River to Whampoa.

SOVIET SABOTAGE ON C.E.R.

Manchukuo's Veiled Threat.

Harbin, To-day.

The Harbin Times, commenting on the sabotage by Soviet administrators of the Chinese Eastern Railway and the unceasing ignoring of Manchukuo officials, thus preventing amicable administration of the Railway, states that this policy will result in relieving Soviet administrators of all authority.

Commenting on the Tokyo Conference on the sale of the Railway, the paper suggests the recalling of the Manchukuo officials owing to the deadlock and the inactivity of the Soviet representatives in connection with the price of sale and the ownership of issues.—Reuter.

The total rainfall for the 24 hours ending 10 a.m. to-day, was 0.22 inch, bringing the total for the year to 23.1 inches against an average of 42.4 inches.

CONCILIATION SPIRIT SHOWN BY GANDHI

Civil Disobedience
Campaign.

MAY BE SUSPENDED BY CONGRESS PARTY

Poona, To-day.

The Indian Congress leaders yesterday conferred with Mahatma Gandhi as a preliminary to to-day's Congress Party meeting.

It appears certain that the Civil Disobedience campaign will be suspended and replaced by a constructive programme.

If so, it is possible that the Government of India will mitigate its attitude and release some of the political prisoners.

The India Office yesterday issued the following official communiqué.

"There is no foundation whatever for the report in some newspapers, that Mahatma Gandhi had written to the Viceroy of India, seeking an interview unconditionally, and stating that the Viceroy had replied that he was not prepared to consider any such requests as long as the Indian Congress adhered to the policy of civil disobedience.

"No such request has been received by the Viceroy from Mahatma Gandhi."—Reuter and British Wireless Service.

UNCERTAINTY ON WALL STREET

Speculation May Get Out Of Control.

STOCKS DECLINE SLIGHTLY

New York, To-day.

Silver prices on Wall Street are working nearer parity to the foreign markets, although they are still somewhat lower.

Industrials, rails and utilities showed a downward tendency, averages declining 1.00, 49 and .63 to 103.08, 54.24 and 36.25 respectively. Business maintained a high figure, 5,230,000 shares being traded.

In their daily report, Messrs. Pierce and Company, through their local correspondents, Messrs. Aelia Lands, Ltd., state:—

"Reactionary predictions are in the air but frankly we do not know what they are based upon. We hear rumours that London is selling and that there is large profit-taking.

"A warning comes from high places lest speculation get out of control." At the closing the market looked as though we could expect more pressure tomorrow morning.

"Wheat: There was world-wide buying of all grains which absorbed profit-taking on a large scale. There is a further pessimistic crop report from the North-West.

BRITISH SUGAR FOR LATVIA.

$55,000 Order Placed
With London Firm.

London, To-day.

For the second year in succession, the Latvian Government sugar monopoly has placed an order in the United Kingdom.

An order for a supply of 7,500 tons of British sugar, valued at £55,000, has been awarded to a firm of London sugar brokers, British Wireless Service.

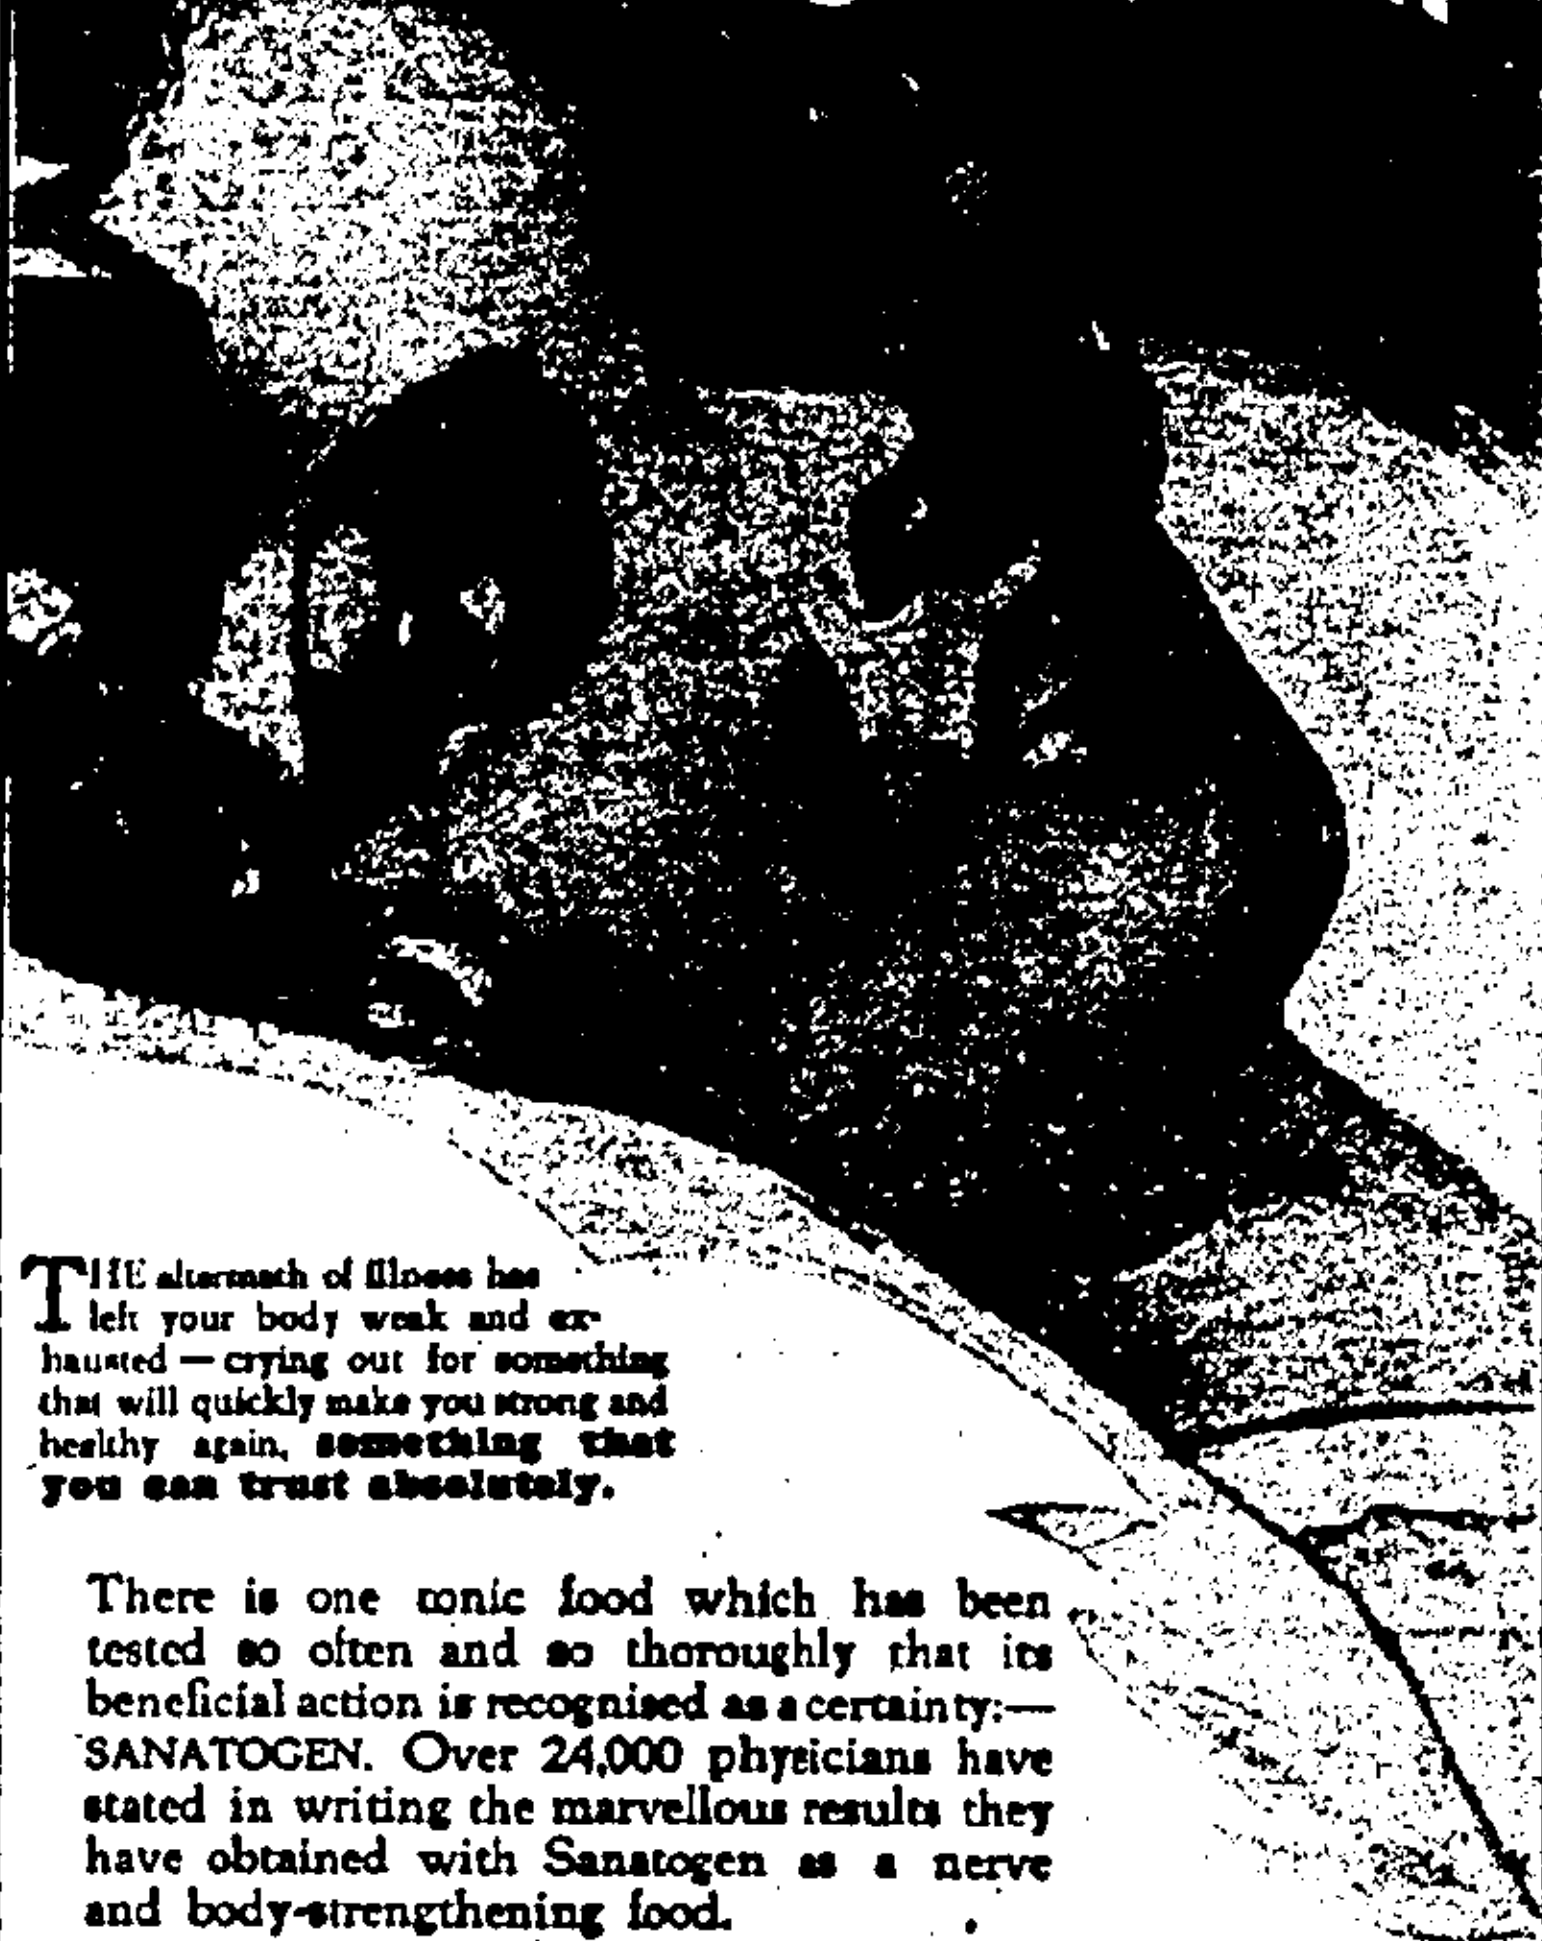

The WOMAN'S Page

In Convalescence to make a quick recovery

SANATOGEN

THE aftermath of illness has left your body weak and exhausted—crying out for something that will quickly make you strong and healthy again, something that you can trust absolutely.

There is one tonic food which has been tested so often and so thoroughly that its beneficial action is recognised as a certainty—SANATOGEN. Over 24,000 physicians have stated in writing the marvellous results they have obtained with Sanatogen as a nerve and body-strengthening food.

Sanatogen increases the appetite and multiplies the number of red blood corpuscles. It is so easily digested that the weakest stomach can absorb it, and being a food and not a drug, it cannot interfere with the medical treatment you are being given.

Thousands of people "have rounded that dangerous corner of half-health" with the aid of Sanatogen. You, too, will recover much more quickly directly you start taking Sanatogen. So start to-day! With Sanatogen you will literally drink in new vitality.

SANATOGEN IS OBTAINABLE AT ALL CHEMISTS

Cherub-Winged Flaps On Shoulders

Tubular Trimming On Coat Sleeves.

Shoulders are being heightened rather than widened. The latest trend consists of rounded, upstanding cherub-wing flaps that are placed just behind the armholes. They are favoured by Schiaparelli, Lelong, Worth and others. Lucile Paray is launching a high-necked, sloping champagne-bottle silhouette, to effect it she uses fur or fichu drapery on numerous models.

Schiaparelli is promoting a tailored line with the upward-pointed wing shoulders characteristic of Cambodian dancers. To obtain a new broad effect she places wide lapel flaps on each side of the chest. Lelong and Lyolene also use these lapel shoulders. Tubular trimming at the top of long coat sleeves are a Schiaparelli and Maggy Rouff feature. Full-gathered elbow cape sleeves are prominent among Lelong's and Worth's mid-summer models. Dresses with elbow sleeves predominate.

LINEN COMPANION TO CREPE DRESSES.

Smart Model In White.

But a more dressy role than this is reserved for the linen coat—that of companion to a crepe dress. The latest thing is to make a three-quarter length one to match the background of a print. That is pretty, yet even smarter is a model in tucked white handkerchief linen worn over black; the gown has a yoke of white linen to match and at the left shoulder is a bouquet of starched flowers edged in red.

WIDER SKIRTS FOR THE DAY.

Wider skirts flaring from the hips are the day-time rule. Evening fullness is growing to super-bouffant proportions in Lelong's and Maggy Rouff's tulle ensembles. The skirt length remains unchanged.

Some slightly trailing coats are shown everywhere. They denote the advent of formality for Autumn. The waistline is practically stabilized with the aid of separate belts for dresses and loose overblouses with suits at a slightly sub-normal level. Schiaparelli alone is maintaining a higher level.

LOOSE SWAGGER COATS FOR ALL HOURS.

The Paris midseason showings continue to approve the nonchalant mode with loose swagger coats for all hours. They range from barely hipbone-length ones chez Maggy Rouff to Lanvin's full-length but long slender belted coats; many houses show them with afternoon ensembles. Chantal and Vera Borea temper the swagger line with semi-fitted backs.

Epicurean Eggs on Toast
Split some muffins; toast delicately on rough side. Place on each a thin circular slice of broiled ham; set above ham a poached egg. Pour over each cream sauce to which has been added ½ tablespoon Tarragon vinegar.

Rice and Mushroom Italian Style
1 Cup rice; 4 tablespoons butter; 4 tablespoons chopped celery; 3 tablespoons chopped parsley; 4 tablespoons tomato catsup or chili sauce; 3 tablespoons chopped onion; 3 cups dried mushrooms. Wash and soak the dried mushrooms in two cups of hot water for half an hour. Wash the rice, then try it, uncooked, in half of the butter, until it is brown and dry. Add 2 cups of liquid, water or stock, a little at a time, just enough to keep the rice from sticking and allow it to steam. It will take about 4 cups of liquid and 20 or 30 minutes for this process with the switch turned low. Meanwhile fry the mushrooms, onions, celery and parsley in half the butter and when golden add the catsup to the rice. Season with salt and paprika. Garnish with parsley.

Mushroom and Chicken Soup
¼ Cup flour; ¾ cup cream; 8 mushrooms; 2 cups milk; 2 cups white stock (chicken or veal); ¼ cup butter; 2 tablespoons sherry flavouring with salt and pepper to taste. Wash, peel and chop the mushrooms and simmer for 20 minutes with the combined milk and stock in a double boiler. Rub through a sieve. Melt the butter and flour add the strained mushrooms and milk. Stir until smooth. Boil two minutes. Just before serving add the cream and wine flavouring or substitute for the latter one tablespoonful of Worcester sauce.

Codfish Batter Cakes
Freshen ½ cup of boiled salt cod shredded and drain thoroughly. Put one cup of sifted flour into a bowl and add a quarter teaspoon of paprika, and very gradually, beating constantly, 2/3 cup of mixed milk and water. Beat well until light, add the fish, the beaten yolks of 2 eggs and fold lightly the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, and a teaspoon of melted butter. Drop by the spoonful into deep fat and fry to a golden brown. Serve with tomato sauce.

LINEN IN A NEW SPHERE

Linen seems to have entered a new sphere, that of coats. One may recall linen dusters of early automobile days—with yards of chiffon floating from the head, they looked like Mother Hubbard's wrapper.

Now they have come in, along with cotton ones, to replace the erstwhile favourite polo coat. Swagger coats are just the thing to throw over a sports dress when hopping into a car heading toward a country club.

To shrink new flannel put it into clean cold water and let it soak for a few days, changing the water frequently, then wash well in warm, soapy water. Flannels thus treated never harden or shrink further.

Your Darling's Safeguard Against Summer Ills.

For many babies the summer is a really trying time. The little stomachs and intestines seem to soon get out of order. But there is a splendid safeguard available in Baby's Own Tablets and countless wise parents rely upon them for keeping their little ones well and happy. Baby's Own Tablets are specially designed by a qualified medical practitioner to provide an all-round corrective for the ailments of babyhood and childhood. Parents with babies or children up to about seven years of age can avoid much anxiety by the simple expedient of administering an occasional tablet through the hot weather.

Baby's Own Tablets are a gentle laxative and stomach cleansing agent, pleasant in taste and appearance. The tablets are rapidly effective for constipation, indigestion, infantile stomach and bowel troubles generally. Baby's Own Tablets relieve flatulence, colic, cramp, convulsions, allay simple feverishness, break up colds, check diarrhoea, expel worms. During teething they are specially valuable, easing the pains in a miraculously speedy fashion though they are guaranteed to contain no opiates, narcotics or other harmful drugs usually contained in so-called "soothing" remedies.

All parents should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the home.

"CONGRESS DANCES"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

Lillian Harvey, the beautiful film actress, who has won fame in Germany and England, appears in the leading role of "Congress Dances," now showing at the Central Theatre. The city of Vienna, with its magnificent palaces and theatres, provides the background for the story, which is a romance between Alexander I of Russia and a glove-shop girl, Christel. They meet in 1814 at Vienna while the former is attending the Congress. The film combines delightful singing, exotic ballets and lilting melodies against a gorgeous stage setting.

"HANDLE WITH CARE"—ORIENTAL THEATRE.

"Handle With Care" the Fox production which is now showing at the Oriental Theatre, features James Dunn and Boots Mallory, the silver screen's latest "find."

The romantic adventures of an ambitious, young assistant district attorney and a "shop" form the basis of the story. After meeting under unusual circumstances, and discovering that they were former sweethearts, Dunn and Mallory start a new romance.

"THE ROADHOUSE MURDER"—MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"The Roadhouse Murder," a thrilling story of a newspaper reporter's success, is the current attraction at the Majestic Theatre. The plot which is centred round a mysterious murder at a lonely roadhouse is full of action and thrills, and newspaper men, their offices and staffs are fully depicted.

Eric Linden, who fills the major role of the crime reporter, is well supported by Dorothy Jordan and Rose Ates.

"VIENNESE NIGHTS"—STAR THEATRE.

With honours evenly divided between Vivienne Segal, daughter of a cobbler, and the charming and delightful, and yet emotional, lyrics of Sigmund Romberg, "Viennese Nights" is the current attraction at the Star Theatre.

Jean Herscholt, veteran character actor, more than amply fills the role of the ambitious German father. Louise Fazenda is the fluffy, gossiping bit to perfection and Walter Pidgeon the typical youthful baron.

"SHE DONE HIM WRONG"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

Mae West, noted Broadway actress, is starred in her second movie, "She Done Him Wrong," now showing at the Queen's Theatre. Mae West appears as a singer in a Bowery saloon where she exchanges her favours for diamonds, and ends her favours when the flow of diamonds ceases. In lusty, hearty fashion, the story swings along, ultimately bringing her in contact with the head of a neighbouring mission, who turns out to be as susceptible to her charms as any of the natives of the district. A startling, dramatic climax follows their mutual discovery of this fact. Gary Grant, Noah Beery, Gilbert Roland, David Landau and Owen Moore head the large cast which supports her.

"THE CISCO KID"—KING'S THEATRE.

Edmund Lowe and Warner Baxter are featured in O. Henry's famous novel of the West entitled "The Cisco Kid," now showing at the King's Theatre.

In this film a careful reproduction of the border towns on the Arizona border during the "nineties" is given, together with actual locales taken in the Santa Cruz desert near Tucson, Arizona. Miss Conchita Montenegro in the leading feminine role, takes the part of a Mexican dancer with whom both Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe fall in love. Nora Lane also contributes an important feminine role as the other love interest.

The supporting cast includes Charlie Stevens, Frederick Burt, Willard Robertson and James Bradbury, Jr.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

BIDDING "ONE OVER ONE"

A few people have taken one feature—an important one, it is true—of the Approach-Forcing System of bidding and sought to make of it a golden calf before which Contract players were expected to fall down and worship. Of course, I refer to the response of one in a suit to partner's Opening bid.

In its essence, the so-called "One over One" convention has always been a part of the Approach-Forcing System of bidding. Generally speaking, the Approach principle simply means that Opening bids should be bids of one, in order that the partnership may explore the possibilities of part-score, game or slam before it has embarked upon an impossible contract. As a matter of course, it follows that if one player opens with a bid of one in a suit and his partner responds with a bid of one in a higher ranking suit, if the Opening bid is anything more than a mere minimum, there will be a further declaration—either the Rebid of the Opening suit, the bid of no-trump, the showing of another suit, or support for partner's bid suit. This is sheer common sense and naturally is the foundation of any sound system of bidding.

However, the worst difficulty that some players have faced in connection with this entirely natural bid is the impression they have gained that, through the mere fact that partner responds to an Opening bid of one in a suit with a bid of one in a higher ranking suit, in some mysterious manner, sleight of hand or what not, the deuces and trays have been converted into Aces and Kings. Of course, this is absurd. In actual practice, those who use the Culbertson System consider the response of one in a higher ranking suit as a Forcing bid 99% of the time. This is so, because the proportion of Opening bids made on absolute minimums is extremely small. It would be difficult for a player to deal out a hand containing a bedrock minimum bid that would not justify a further bid if partner showed signs of interest by responding with a bid of one in a higher ranking suit. By considering this bid as absolutely Forcing, the fine inferences which can be drawn from the natural use of the bid disappear. Thus, having 3½ or more honor-tricks, those who use the Approach-Forcing System will not merely bid one over partner's Opening suit bid of one, but will make a Forcing Takeout, which indicates a strong probability of game and a hand of such strength that a round of bidding can well be sacrificed in order to convey more precise inferences. On the other hand, for instance, if the Opening bid is one diamond, and the response to that bid is one heart, then the Opening bidder can draw the precise inference that the Responding Hand does not hold 3½ honor-tricks or he would make a Forcing Takeout.

The fact that such slight additional values as a five-card length in the suit or a Queen above a minimum hand, justify a Rebid when partner has responded to a bid of one with a bid of one makes it unnecessary to make a Forcing Takeout on doubtful hands. Forcing bids are spectacular and interesting. They are valuable weapons when the hands are of such strength as to justify their use, but the Forcing Opening bid, the Forcing Takeout and the Forcing Rebid have all been abused by players fearful of missing game.

The proper conception of bidding is that each bid, when the partnership has opened the bidding, is a step forward. It may not be a step toward game or slam, but each bid and each response should more clearly disclose to both players whether the goal on that particular hand should be part-score, game or slam. As many rounds of bidding as possible should be conserved on doubtful hands, so that when the score is marked down, it will be on the plus and not the minus side of the sheet.

HOW RIISER LARSEN WAS RESCUED.

Expedition Broken Up By Gale.

DRIFTED ON ICE-FLOE.

Cape Town.

How Commander Riiser Larsen's Antarctic expedition came to an untimely end and how he was rescued from a terrible fate was related by Mr. C. Martinsen, manager of the Whale Oil factory ship Lancing, on his arrival in Table Bay. Mr. Martinsen was leader of the expedition which responded to the wireless calls for help from Larsen who was stranded on an ice-floe after his expedition had been broken up, following a gale.

Relating his experiences, Mr. Martinsen said that Riiser Larsen landed on Princess Ragnhild Land which he considered to be a safe place early in February. Three days after he had taken his dogs and stores on the ice a gale sprang up which caused the ice to crack and split into many floes. The main depot was broken up and within a few hours men, dogs, stores and equipment were drifting seaward on five separate floes. Urgent wireless messages were sent out to factory ships, which were working towards Enderby Land and three or four whale-catchers rushed to the rescue. When nearing the position of the marooned men, Mr. Martinsen sent out a wireless message telling Riiser Larsen that he was nearing their position and that smoke signals would be shown. Although it was blowing hard and ice navigation was difficult, Mr. Martinsen in the catcher Globe 5 threaded his way among the bergs and growlers and before long sighted a floe, on which he saw Larsen and his two companions. The catcher was steered close to the floe and the three men were taken on board showing evident signs of the great hardships they had endured.

After taking in the wireless outfit and an aluminium boat, which the party had clung to as their only chance of safety, a search was made for the dogs and equipment. Fortunately the visibility was fair and a sharp lookout was kept on every patch of ice.

The man in the crow's nest at last reported that he could see something moving on a floe and the course was altered in its direction.

Mr. Martinsen said that out of 51 dogs that had been cast adrift only four were found alive with dead body of another beside them. On a large patch of thick ice some of the sledges and other gear were found but almost all the food supplies and oil were lost.—Reuter.

SIR ABE BAILEY TO PAY.

Liquidation Dividends And Super-Tax.

£300,000 INVOLVED

Bloemfontein.

Sir Abe Bailey unsuccessfully appealed to the Appellate Division against the judgment of the Transvaal Provincial Division that he was liable to pay super tax on liquidation dividends amounting to over £300,000.

Sir Abe, when making his income tax returns, described amounts of £292,720 from Brysanston Proprietary, Ltd., £7,931 from the Phoenix Gold Mine, £2,950 from H.M. Association and several other amounts as liquidation dividends.

The Commissioner of Inland Revenue held that these liquidation dividends were subject to tax.

The Appeal Court, in dismissing the appeal, with costs, came to the conclusion that the transactions were in the nature of a sale in consideration of the allotment to Sir Abe of all the shares he previously had, and by means of which he hoped to receive profits by indirect means and so escape burdensome taxation.

The Court therefore held that the liquidation dividends were gross income in terms of the Income Tax Act and taxable.—Reuter.

A REMBRANDT FOR AUSTRALIA

Life's Tragedy In A Self-Portrait.

DRAMATIC EVIDENCE OF WELBECK FIND

The Rembrandt self-portrait which was discovered some time ago by Mr. C. K. Adams, of the National Portrait Gallery, at Welbeck, the seat of the Duke of Portland, is to be acquired, through the Felton Bequest, for the National Gallery of Victoria.

It was impossible to identify the picture until it was carefully examined and lightly cleaned. After this had been done Sir Charles Holmes, one-time director of the National Gallery, unhesitatingly corroborated Mr. Adams's most important attribution.

In further confirmation of the ascription a signature was found, with a half-discernible date, which resembles 1668, but may be 1669. Rembrandt died on Tuesday, Oct. 8, 1669. To me, judging from the style of the portrait, it is likelier that it was painted the year before artist's death, but that problem remains to be cleared up by an even closer scientific study.

A Rembrandt self-portrait very like this one was acquired some years ago by the National Gallery of Scotland. It is certainly of a very late date and some passages were left unfinished.

In the National Gallery, London, there is another notable Rembrandt self-portrait, dated 1640, and a comparison of it with the Melbourne and the Edinburgh examples offers eloquent and tragic evidence of the effects of time and a multitude of sorrows on the features of the greatest of all portrait painters.

COMMEMORATION OF ARIOSTO.

Celebration Of Fourth Centenary.

Ferrara.

Ferrara began recently the series of national celebrations which have been organized to mark the fourth centenary of the death of its greatest son, Lodovico Ariosto. The Prince and Princess of Piedmont, the Air Minister, General Balbo, himself a Ferrarese, the President of the Senate, and many high authorities were present. The city was freely be flagged.

The first ceremony was the opening of the exhibition of Ferrarese paintings of the Renaissance, which is being held in the Palazzo del Diamanti. In the great hall were hung the celebrated Gobelins, woven in France on a design of the Fesio Dossi for Ercole II. d'Este and sent here for the occasion by the Paris Gobelins Museum. Signor Ugo Ojetti, member of the Italian Academy, delivered the inaugural speech.

The bibliographic exhibition in Palazzo del Paradiso, where are collected the oldest editions of Ariosto's "Orlando," the exhibition of bronzes and medals in the Palazzo Schifanoia, and the iconographic exhibition in the house of Ariosto himself were also opened.

The celebrations to come, lasting until October, will include pageants in the costumes of the period (such as the "Palo" of St. George, once as famous as that of Siena), congresses, concerts, and several other exhibitions.

FAME ASSURED FOR DANNY MALONE.

Second McCormack In New Irish Tenor.

That Ireland can produce famous singers is no idle boast, and recently another fine Irish tenor has been discovered, to give the Emerald Isle further honours in the musical world.

Danny Malone is but 22, and a few weeks ago was unknown and out of work. He has never had a singing lesson in his life and yet he sings with a freedom and natural ease that shames many a famous singer. He is the only singer who seems to have in him the making of a John McCormack.

It is not the brogue—any Irish singer could have that—but the grace and fluency of his phrasing, his musicianship and his power to make each song live that proclaims for him a brilliant future.

Community Drama In Britain

Increased Support For National Festival

AMATEUR STAGE DEFEATED

(By Sydney W. Carroll.)

The National Festival of Community Drama held its finals at the Old Vic recently. This year the entrants numbered 458, an increase in the English and Welsh areas of 46 over the entries in the 1931 festival.

The five plays the judges selected for the final festival were as follows: "Murder Trial" by Sydney Box, presented by the Beckenham Players and Shakespearean Society (Eastern area); "The Road of Poplars" by Vernon Sylvaine, presented by the Shrewsbury Amateur Dramatic Society (Western area); and the same play again, presented by the Birkenhead Old Boys Dramatic Society (Northern area); "Everybody's Husband," by Gilbert Cannon, presented by the Swansea Stage Society (Welsh area); "The Long Christmas Dinner," by Thornton Wilder, presented by Dundee Dramatic Society (Scottish area).

The festivals, held all over the country, provide remarkable evidence of the intense interest shown by all classes of society in drama and acting. This amateur movement has grown to such proportions, it is so diversified in its character and so enthusiastic in its tendencies that it makes drama more a part of our national culture than it has ever been in our whole history. Most of the people engaged in the work do their work quietly, without ostentation or undue advertisement.

New Type Of Theatre. I have been very much interested to hear the opinions of one of the adjudicators to the effect that "though performances are frequently given suffering from incredible inaudibility and feebleness, and showing a complete lack of understanding either of the play or of elementary principles of stagecraft, performances which are frankly a misery to sit through; on the other hand, there are performances so full of skill, inspiration and unerring sense of the stage, that one feels there might arise from them a new type of theatre, subtler, more sensitive, and with a greater appreciation of the values of playwriting and production."

The selection of the plays in each area is astonishingly varied. Every conceivable kind of entertainment, the most extraordinary conglomeration of authors, from the highest to the lowest, and every vehicle of expression finds its supporters.

I know that some professional players believe that the amateur habit is detrimental to the legitimate stage, but I cannot follow their reasoning. It seems to me clear that the more the members of the general public become interested in the actual practice of the dramatic art, the better and more constant playgoers they must become.

In earlier times the amateur stage was given over almost entirely to young people, who looked upon it as a jolly and lively method of spending spare time and little more. The kind of recreation they secured was very well depicted in that evergreen entertainment, "A Pantomime Rehearsal."

To-day your amateur takes himself and his preoccupation with high seriousness. All over the country the aim of the amateur dramatic society seems chiefly to be in the direction of culture and the intelligent grasp of humanity's many problems.

Making Playgoers.

The gravest social questions of the hour, the physiological and metaphysical problems of the age are all too unsubstantial and unsatisfying for their ambitions. Whether this is wholly to the benefit of drama as drama or not is a matter for argument. There is much to be said for the less serious and more diverting aspects of the amateur theatre. But either way the cause of the theatre benefits. The public will never be persuaded to desert the skill and experience of the regular stage for the spasmodic antics, however brilliant, of its amateur annexe. And meanwhile recruits are being made in their hundreds to the ranks of the regular playgoers.

THE EDINBURGH BOTTICELLI

Said To Be A Copy.

Paris.

Allegations which seem likely to start a lively controversy were made in the "Journal" recently about the portrait of a young man by Botticelli recently acquired by the National Gallery of Scotland. It is suggested that the Edinburgh painting is a copy, made in Belgium four years ago, and that the version of this portrait in the Louvre, which in the catalogue is simply attributed to "the school of Botticelli," is actually the original.

The suggestion is made that four years ago a young Brussels artist copied the portrait in the Louvre on an old panel in which there were slight cracks, and sold his work in the provinces. The copy is said to have been bought in due course by a Belgian dealer, who sold it at a high price in London. It is further maintained that it has yet to be proved that the picture in the Louvre is not an authentic Botticelli.

In announcing the acquisition of the portrait by the National Gallery of Scotland, Edinburgh, and pointing out that another version of the same portrait was in the Louvre, Mr. R. R. Tatlock wrote in The London Daily Telegraph on May 3:

"Both portraits are, superficially regarded, almost identical, but the one now published (the Edinburgh version) has qualities absent in the Louvre version."

"The drawing of the features is more delicate, and the colours, including, especially, the lovely blue background of lapis lazuli, are far better harmonised."

Roman Relic Found Near Naples

Emperor's Head With Sardonic Smile.

CURIOUS DRAMA REVEALED

Naples.

The discovery of a life-sized head of a Roman emperor in marble in the course of new excavations on the site of the ancient city of Paestum, near Naples, has brought to light a curious drama of many hundreds of years ago.

The head is that of the Emperor Tiberius, who was very unpopular in Paestum because he deprived the city of several ancient privileges, including that of coining their own currency.

But there is no trace of the body to have been carefully buried below the level of the old city.

It is believed that after Tiberius' death the statue was overthrown in a civic riot and that followers of the old emperor picked up the head and devotedly buried it in order to preserve it.

The head is in excellent condition and is of exquisite workmanship. It depicts the Emperor with a sardonic smile on his face.—Reuter.

BEDTIME STORIES IN AMERICA.

Depression In Show Business.

The depression has produced some queer happenings in the show business, but the height of something or other is the story in this week's "Variety," the American showman's bible, about a certain super-cinema in New York.

The permanent stock chorus-girls at this palazzo receive less than the minimum scale allowed by Chorus Equity, although they often work fifteen hours a day.

They also have to conform to a number of house rules, of which No. 10 is that they must not intermingle or converse with male members of the show.

The other week this notice was pinned up on the board:

"There will be a cut of 10 percent. in chorus' salaries effective April 6, at which time Rule No. 10 will be suspended."

Trade Improvement
In Britain.

The improvement in employment in Britain, which has been recorded month by month since January, was continued at an accelerated rate in May. At the end of January there were only 9,285,000 insured persons in employment, but the number a fortnight ago was 9,657,000, an increase of 372,000. During the same four months the number of the registered unemployed has declined by over 320,000 to 2,582,879. This is still a formidable total, but it is certainly encouraging to find that the spring revival of trade has already lasted two months longer than it did last year, and that, moreover, there is a more cheerful spirit abroad. A large contribution to the increase of employment has been made by the building industry. The revival of building has been so unexpectedly rapid that the supply of bricks has fallen short of requirements in certain areas; but that is a defect soon to be remedied, if indeed supply has not already caught up with demand. Activity in building spreads rapidly to many ancillary trades, and without doubt a considerable proportion of the improvement in employment is to be ascribed directly and indirectly to investment in building. But that is very far from being the complete story of the better of things and the better outlook. Every important branch of industry was doing better in May than in many preceding months. The engineering and the lighter metal trades all contributed to the increase of employment, and the textile industries were busier. It is usual for the clothing trades to reach the seasonal peak of their activity just before Whitsuntide, and the bright warm weather has been their ally. If they should be rather less busy in the weeks that lie ahead, there is the probability that the business of passenger transport, by rail, road, and sea, will increase. The May count of the unemployed, coming, as it did this year, well before Whitsuntide, has not been affected by the labour requirements of the wholly summer trades and services. That is something in store. The facts and figures of to-day prove that employment is distinctly better in the insured occupations generally, the only exceptions being those which naturally suffer a decline in the warm days, as coalmining does. Not included in the Ministry of Labour's survey is the great industry of agriculture, which also is making its contribution to the increase of employment and the revival of confidence.

Emergency Powers For
Mr. Roosevelt.

It is the commonest of remarks that the United States Congress has conferred upon Mr. Roosevelt greater and more varied powers than were ever given to a President except in time of war. They are called emergency powers. This means that they are contingent — not to be used if the emergency is resolved, or if other means of surmounting it come into play quietly. Also implied is a high sense of responsibility on the part of the President, along with the exercise of his best discretion based upon the most accurate information available to him. Many of his warmest supporters in Congress and in America have openly expressed the hope that most of the permissive powers placed in his hands he will never employ at all. Thus far, it is only fair to say, Mr. Roosevelt has in most cases proceeded with caution and acted upon the best advice that he could get. Excepting his decisions to "let the dollar take care of itself," and to make void the Government contract to pay its obligations in gold, there is little to complain of with regard to his concrete acts. The cloud of uncertainty which he has left over his future course, by so much hindering the return of confidence, is another matter. Yet there are encouraging reports of his determination to select and utilize skilled men in the proposed work of putting the railroads on their feet and helping business to recover. It is largely on this ground, and with this expectation, that many large industrialists have professed a willingness, and even desire, to co-operate with him in the carrying out of his plans. No one doubts Mr. Roosevelt's excellent intentions. He unquestionably has at heart the good of the American people and the credit of the Government. He cannot look forward to what he has called "experimentation" simply for the pleasure of dabbling in it.

Stainless Steel Train

New York.
Speed and beauty will be the watchwords of a new era in railway trains if an experiment announced by the Great Union Pacific Railway proves successful.

The chairman of the company announces that an order will be placed for the construction of an entirely new type of passenger train, to have a speed of 110 miles an hour, lightweight, and full streamlining.

The train will first be operated on special runs between the larger cities on the system, with the purpose of demonstrating its practicability for the regular main line through passenger train service. Consisting of three cars—with one truck between each two cars and the cars hinged together—the train will have cooled and filtered air and will be constructed either of aluminium alloys or of stainless steel.

600 Horse Power.

The "engine" will contain a 600 horse power distillate (a non-explosive fuel) burning internal combustion motor with direct connected electric generator and also a 30ft. railway post office and a baggage room. The second car will be a coach seating 60 passengers. The rear car will seat 86 passengers, and will have a buffet at the rear end to serve light meals to passengers in their seats.

"Because a woman lied to me," the jumper replied.

"Lied? What do you mean?"

"She told me her husband was not in."

Facts You Did Not Know.

Operated by a 100 horsepower motor, one of the world's largest turning lathes has been installed in a German plant to handle steel up to 32 feet in length.

Invented by a Los Angeles engineer, a new electric cutting torch develops a temperature of 8500 degrees, hot enough to vaporize diamonds and melt tungsten.

The United States is Brazil's greatest supplier of paints and varnish and Belgium, Great Britain and Germany furnish it with most of its paint materials.

An electric lighter, guarded from the weather by a shield, has been erected at one corner of a Texas oil field to eliminate the danger of smokers using matches.

Friends are quick to assert that if any experiment fails, he will be the first to abandon it. A wise man, even in public office, learns by his own errors. A brave man will resist public clamour urging him to do something foolish. That kind of courage, together with a display of sound judgment, looking before and after, is what America—and the world—would be delighted to find and applaud in His President Roosevelt.

IMPOSSIBLE WAR DEBT
CONTRACTSATISFACTORY REVISION
CAN BE MADEWILL FRUSTRATE WORLD
CONFERENCEBy SIR ANDREW MCFADYEAN,
Secretary of the Reparation Commission, 1922-24.

London, June 25. students of the world's economic problems for the following view. The so-called "War Debts" consist of (1) the inter-allied debts proper, being the amounts which France, Italy and various lesser countries owe to this country, as well as amounts which are owing to some of our debtors, for instance France, by others of our debtors, for instance, Jugoslavia, and (2) the amounts which all of us owe to the United States.

It is the second category which is important: if a satisfactory revision of contractual obligations towards the United States can be made, it is inconceivable that there will be any difficulty in readjusting the amounts which the European States owe each other. In effect, practically all the sums which are collectable as between the European ex-Allies are required by the respective creditors to meet their American liabilities; America is the final creditor and the rest of us constitute a clearing office for the collection and transfer of the sums due to that creditor.

Since the Young Plan came into force by far the largest portion of the sums due by Germany as Reparation, which is not normally thought of as included in the term "War Debts," is earmarked for the American payments.

Now these inter-Governmental debts are not an item on the Agenda of the World Economic Conference. Technically they are, of course, not the business of the 50 or 60 Governments of the world, but of the half-dozen debtors and creditors.

Moreover, the United States Government takes the view that any discussion of debts due to it must take place with its debtors separately and not jointly, which is a valid objection to effecting a new settlement in the Geological Museum, but not, perhaps, to discussing principles, which concern the whole world.

Artificial Situation

If a dozen of the world's leading physicians were called into consultation over a patient suffering from a complication of maladies, we should think it unreasonable if one foreign specialist refused to discuss the case unless there were a preliminary agreement precluding all discussion as to blood-poisoning when that was plainly one of the patient's disabilities. If that particular foreign specialist monopolised the only serum calculated to effect a cure we should have to fall in with his wishes, the more readily if we were convinced that he was quite prepared to approach the forbidden topic outside the consulting-room.

That is, in fact, very much the position in which we find ourselves. The American representatives, unless Mr. MacDonald badly misunderstood Mr. Roosevelt's mind, will be willing enough to discuss debts outside the Geological Museum; while the other causes of economic chaos and the other cores for it are being discussed in the Economic Conference, parallel discussions will be pursued outside as to the responsibility of war debts for our troubles, and negotiations conducted as to their revision.

The situation is therefore highly artificial, and no excuse is needed for treating "War Debt" as effectively, though not nominally, on the Agenda of the Conference.

Economists differ on the question how far war debts were responsible for bringing about a depression which is unprecedented in economic history for its extensiveness and intensity, but their differences relate to the question "how far" and not to the question "whether." They do not differ to any significant extent on the more urgent question whether there is any hope of restoring that confidence which is the first essential for a revival of prosperity unless there is a re-examination, followed by cancellation or a drastic writing down, of dead-weight Governmental debts.

There is no space to be anything but dogmatic, but it is not hazardous to claim that there would be a substantial agreement among all five here on Saturday next.

The Trade Problem

War debts and Reparation have represented a claim by the United States, and to a lesser degree by France, on goods and services; the money originally advanced was expended on purposes of destruction, and the debtors are not therefore in a better position, by reason of having contracted the debts, to produce the goods and services.

It follows that substantially the transfer of these goods and services to America required an expansion of world trade; it required America, who had ceased to be a debtor and become a creditor, to import more than it exported. In fact, America has shown since the Armistice an increasing reluctance to accept imports, and has preferred to protect her home market by raising tariff barriers.

For various reasons other countries have followed suit in refusing to accept additional imports, forced out under the pressure of political debts which were not, like private commercial debts, capable of automatic adjustment to capacity to pay.

America postponed the evil day by lending Europe the money with which to pay her; but borrowing to pay interest on a debt means accumulating that debt at compound interest, and that process was bound to lead to a breakdown unless the debtor was allowed to pay in goods.

We have reached the breakdown; Germany is in a position where she is clearly unable to meet the service of her political and commercial indebtedness. She has to all intents and purposes been relieved of her political indebtedness; she cannot at the moment pay what is due on commercial account.

Tragic Paradox

What Germany owed to her late enemies they still owe to America. Theoretically a reversal of the policy followed for the last fourteen years, and a substantial lowering of trade barriers might enable them to pay. In fact, there will be no removal of restrictions and no recovery in international trade so long as the world at large fears that the same causes may produce the same results—that the effort to export a sufficient surplus to cover political debts, which have done nothing to increase the world's productivity and natural interchange of goods and services, will lead to unacceptably bitter competition for export markets.

ARMED ROBBERY IN
NEW TERRITORIESAttack On Samwo Brick
Kiln, Lokmachau.

MONEY AND CLOTHING STOLEN

Five men armed with two revolvers and five knives, attacked a matched above the Samwo Brick Kiln at Ho Sheung Ho Village, Lokmachau, at 1 a.m. this morning. The robbers held up the employees at the point of the revolver and stole a quantity of money and clothing.

The robbers escaped in the direction of Man Shan Loong. The report was made to the police by Kong Ming, partner of the Samwo Brick Kiln.

News In Brief.

H. M. S. Wild Swan of the 8th Destroyer Flotilla, left Wei-hai-wei on Monday and is expected to arrive in the Colony on Friday, while H. M. S. Verity left Taingtan yesterday, and is expected to arrive here on Saturday next.

CENTRAL THEATRE
SUMMONSED*Safety Curtain Not Yet Installed.*DIFFICULTIES EXPLAINED

Mr. Ng Pak-to, owner, and Mr. C. L. Chung, manager, respectively, of the Central Theatre, again appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning, to answer to a second summons by the Deputy Superintendent of the Fire Brigade, Mr. J. C. Fitz-Henry, for failure to comply with Government notification No. 444, posted on October 25, 1932, giving them until April 27, 1933, to install a safety curtain and lantern.

Mr. Hin Shing-Lo appeared for the defendants, while Mr. J. C. Fitz-Henry prosecuted.

Counsel in his opening said he saw no reason why a second summons should be issued as on the previous hearing on June 28, the first summons was adjourned for a month.

Counsel submitted blue-prints of the Theatre showing the estimated cost of installing a safety curtain and the construction work needed. The entire building was covered by a large dome which would have to be cut through at the rear portion in order to let through a safety curtain. This, submitted counsel, might endanger the construction of the building.

Mr. Fitz-Henry, interposing said the main objection to the theatre not having a safety curtain was that several dressing rooms behind the stage were being used by people, making the stage unsafe in case of fire.

Mr. Lo said he was instructed to say by his client that no permission had been granted to anyone for the use of the dressing rooms to the rear of the screen, but he was also instructed to say that owing to some mistake, some folk had used some of the rooms. This has since been remedied, and His Worship could remain assured that the rear portion of the stage was quite safe from usage.

Mr. Fitz-Henry drew a comparison with such theatres as the Lee Theatre, the Po Shing Theatre and others that had and were constructing safety curtains. He saw no reasons why any discrimination should be drawn between the Central Theatre and the others which had complied with the Government notification.

Mr. Fitz-Henry also produced plans to show that the construction of the Central Theatre would in no way be affected by the erection of a safety curtain.

His Worship adjourned the hearing for another fortnight in order to allow the Fire Brigade, Police, P.W.D. and the defendants to come to some arrangement, failing which the hearing would again be called in a fortnight.

UNUSUAL CHARGE
AT POLICE COURT.*Effecting A Public Mischievous.

An unusual charge was brought before the Police Court this morning when Tsang Piu, an umbrella repairer, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones, charged with "effecting a public mischief by causing officers of the District Watch Force to devote time and services on the investigations of false allegations, thereby temporarily depriving the public of the services of the officers and rendering one Chow Mo-ning liable to suspicion, accusation and arrest."

Remarking that he thought that it would be a rather interesting case from the legal standpoint, the Magistrate adjourned the hearing until Friday morning.

THIRD PARTY
INSURANCE*Local Ordinance
Considered.*CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
INFORMATION

An Ordinance to compel motorists in the Colony to take out insurance policies against third party risks, is being considered by the Government. Similar legislation has been in operation in Great Britain for some years.

In the annual report of the Chamber of Commerce issued yesterday, it is revealed that the co-operation of the Chamber is invited on the question of fixing a premium. The Chamber was asked to ascertain from British insurance companies, the premium charge on a policy for $50,000, laid down in the Draft Motor Vehicle (Third Party Risks) Ordinance.

The letter, sent by Sir William Shenton on behalf of the Government, states:—

"You will note from Section 4 that it is proposed that no person shall use or permit to be used a motor vehicle on a road unless there is a policy of insurance in existence in respect of third party risks which complies with the Ordinance. In ordinary cases the amount stipulated is $50,000."

The Insurance in question will be compulsory and before proceeding with the matter the Government desire to know what the public will be called upon to pay by way of premium for the purpose of complying with the terms of the Ordinance."

Insurance Committee.

The Chamber wrote to the Secretaries of the Fire Insurance Association, Hong Kong, conveying the suggestion of the Insurance Sub-Committee of the Chamber that the Association (as a body including within its membership insurance companies in Hong Kong) would be willing to obtain the information desired by Government.

The Fire Insurance Association appointed a Sub-Committee to go into the matter, and in reply to the Insurance Companies' request that sufficient time be allowed to enable local representatives to obtain the views of Head Offices, the Government stated that it had no intention of proceeding with the proposed legislation without giving due notice of its intention.

At the request of Insurance Companies, Government supplied further information on points of detail.

The question is still under consideration. Similar legislation is already in force in India.

Cologne. Evidence that bees buzzed busily about in Germany more than 9,000,000 years ago has been found by Herr Georg Statz, a Cologne teacher.

For several years past Herr Statz has delved in the tertiary deposits near Rott, in the Seven Mountains district of the Rhineland, for fossils. Among his recent finds was a perfect impression of a bee. There is every reason to assume that the insect was but little inferior in development to the present-day honey bee.

Herr Statz has already made known his discovery to the scientific world. No one yet appears to have challenged his theory as to the age of the Rott bee.

The original impression of the bee is included in Herr Statz's collection of fossils now being shown to the public at an exhibition in the city. —Reuter.

At Government House yesterday, the retiring members of the 1932 Board of Directors of the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital, under Mr. Chan Lim-pak, formally handed over their work and accounts to the newly-appointed Directors for the present and coming year under Mr. Pun Hiu-chiu.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., congratulated the retiring Directors for the splendid work which they had achieved for this leading Chinese charitable and medical institution. His Excellency also wished the new Directors every success in the execution of the work before them.

Among the Government officials present were the Hon. Mr. D. W. Trautman and the Hon. Mr. A. E. Wood. Members of the permanent Advisory Board of the Hospital present were the Hon. Sir Shou-sun Chow, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kote-wall, the Hon. Mr. S. W. Tso, the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, and Messrs. Li Yau-tsun, Lo Cheung-shiu, M. K. Lo, Li Po-kwai, Wong Kwong-tin and Fu Yick-pang.

In the course of his annual report, Mr. Chan Lim-pak, thanked the Hon. Mr. E. R. Halifax, and also the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Hon. Mr. A. E. Wood, for their valuable assistance. He also referred to the charitable and generous dispositions, as well as to the loyal support which his fellow-Directors had given him.

In making an application to His Excellency for the grant of an area of ground adjacent to the Hospital, Mr. Chan Lim-pak said, "it is expedient that future extensions should be considered. Adjacent to the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital is a large area of vacant land which, I suggest, the Government may graciously grant to the Hospitals in order to provide more land for future extension of the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital."

Beer drinking is considered not to be in keeping with the "dignity of the fifty wonder of the world" and beer will not be sold on the U.S. side of this popular trysting place for honeymooners.

"It would be against the dignity of the fifty wonder of the world to have beer sold and consumed near the Falls," said the Chairman of the Commission controlling the park on the U.S. side. "For decency and propriety, I think it would be unbecoming for us to allow the sale of beer."

To-Day's Short Story.MOSES
MONTEFIORE*By Sh.
An-Sky.

FIAR, far away, across the sea, in England, lived Reb Moses Montefiore. He was a great man in Israel, and his name was famous from one end of the world to the other. He was the chief adviser of the British Queen, and she would not take a step without consulting him. The greatest princes and lords bowed down before him. Even the kings of foreign countries showed him great honour.

His wealth was beyond compute. He owned many wells of quicksilver, and though full vessels were drawn up day and night the wells never ran dry. And quicksilver, as everyone knows, is more expensive than ordinary silver, some say even more expensive than gold. That will give an idea how wealthy he was. He lived in the Royal Palace, which was ornamented with gold and silver and precious stones and pearls. He had hundreds of servants, and when he travelled it was only in a golden coach, drawn by eight horses, and before him sped runners, crying, "Way there for our Lord Montefiore!"

But it was not his power nor his wealth that made Reb Moses Montefiore famous all over the world. It was all because of his noble deeds, because of what he did for Israel. If ever a misfortune came upon Jews, it might be at the very ends of the earth, if there was a pogrom, a libel, an expulsion, or whatsoever civil edict, he rose up at once like a lion to defend his brother. He rushed to the Queen, threw himself on his knees before her and asked for aid. He travelled to the kings of foreign lands, spent gold lavishly, and would not rest till the edict was annulled.

At the same time he was very generous with his money. He built schools and Yeshibas, maintained thousands of Jews who sat studying the sacred tomes, helped the poor, supported the fallen, was a father to the widows and the orphans. And he was also a really pious Jew, and scrupulously observed all the commandments.

But since it is impossible in this world for any man to be without fault, Reb Moses Montefiore lacked something—he lacked learning. He was no ignoramus, God forbid! On the contrary, he knew his Gemarah, studied a complete section every day, and he wasn't content just with studying the Gemarah, but he studied it together with the Tosofa and Maharasha, as it ought to be done. But his learning lacked depth, acuteness, fire. And Reb Moses Montefiore knew it, and grieved because of it.

At the same time that the name of Reb Moses Montefiore was famous all over the world there lived in the town of Minsk, in Lithuania, the Gaon Rabbi Gershon Tanchum. He, too, was a great man in Israel, and his fame was world-wide. He knew the whole of Sha's by heart. There was no volume of Jewish learning that he had not studied.

There was no Halachah to which he had not contributed something new. In him were wells full of the quicksilver of wisdom, and no matter how much he drew upon them, they were always brimful. He, too, built great palaces of invention and ingenuity, and walked at ease among the orchards and the vineyards of the glorious Hagadath. And he spent his spiritual treasures with a lavish hand. He gave food and drink to those who hungered and thirsted for the word of God.

But Rabbi Gershon Ben Tanchum also lacked something. With all his wisdom and greatness he was terribly poor. His pay as a Rabbi was two gulden a week, and since he had a family, he suffered hunger and privation.

And there came a day when the fame of Reb Gershon Ben Tanchum reached the ears of Reb Moses Montefiore. And Reb Moses Montefiore decided to have him as his teacher. And when Reb Moses Montefiore decides to have something, it is, naturally, not a difficult matter for him to have it. So he didn't take long to make up his mind, and ordered eight horses to be harnessed to his gold coach, and he went off to Minsk. And on his way, as was his wont, he threw heaps of roubles out of the windows on both sides of the road. He did not even look to see who picked them up, a Jew or a non-Jew—it was all one to him!

Now you must realise that it is ever so far from England to Minsk. But what does that matter if you travel with eight spanking steeds. A few days pass and Reb Moses Montefiore is in Minsk. He stops in the middle of the market place, and asks where Reb Gershon Tanchum lives. So they point out to him a little old house in a side street behind the synagogue. And Reb Moses Montefiore goes along there, walks into the room, and finds Reb Gershon poring over a tome. So Reb Moses Montefiore goes up to him and says:

"Rabbi, I want you to know that I am Moses Montefiore."

When Rabbi Gershon heard these words he stood up quickly, repeated the blessing "on seeing great men." Blessed art Thou, O Lord, Who hast given Thy wisdom to flesh and blood," and greeted his visitor.

Reb Moses Montefiore responded to his greeting, and said: "I want you to know, Rabbi Gershon Tanchum, that I have decided to have you as my teacher. I shall give your family as much as they require for their needs, and you will come away with me. You will live with me in the Palace; will sit at my table, and take from my hand for everything you must have—for clothing and shoes, for a bath, and a pinch of snuff."

Rabbi Gershon Tanchum hears these words and does not know what to reply. Here Reb Moses Montefiore has come to fetch him in a gold coach, so how can he refuse him? Yet he replies that he must first consult his wife, and obtain permission from his congregation. And when he has done this Reb Moses Montefiore counts out a thousand roubles in gold coins for his family, seats Reb Tanchum at his side in the gold coach and off they go in an auspicious hour. PRACTICAL SWIMMING

THE BREAST STROKE

(By Sid G. Hedges).

BREAST-STROKE, though not used so much as it used to be, is still an invaluable style of swimming. No other stroke is of such all-round use; in fact, there is not a single other stroke in which the head can remain high out of the water all the time, if desired.

You must first learn the parts of the stroke separately and practise them like that for some days before attempting to combine them.

The best way is to acquire the movements by means of a land drill, and afterwards to repeat what you have learned, in the water.

The Arm Movements.

Start at home, therefore, beginning with the arms. Stand upright, with your arms stretched out to the front, parallel with each other and with the floor—that is the preliminary position. The action has four parts and you will count slowly, so that it may be properly timed.

One.—The arms make no movement.
 Two.—Sweep the arms downward and backward for about 15 inches, until they are at right angles with each other, and with the hands about 12 inches lower than when they started the sweep.
 Three.—The hands recover under the chin, thumbs touching and elbows drooping to the sides.
 Four.—Thrust the hands and arms forward into the first position.

The Leg Action.

"To practise the leg action, stand 'at attention.' Only one leg can be tried at a time.

One.—Do not move.

Two.—Still do not move.

Three.—Draw the heel up until it touches the other knee; the raised knee must be pressed outward.
 Four.—Kick the foot out to the side until the leg is straight; then sweep the leg down into the preliminary position.

After getting used to these movements, it is a good plan to combine both legs with both arms whilst lying across a chair or stool. Go slowly so that nothing is scamped or forgotten. Then go to the bathing pool and start the stroke in the water. For the arms you will stand nearly breast deep and lean forward until your shoulders are immersed. Your arms, of course, will be in the preliminary position, just under the surface; and then everything goes just as on land.

Take care to face towards the shallow, so that as the arm action pulls you forward you do not have to step out of your depth.

When practising the legs, grip a rail or step or the side of the bathing place with both hands, so that you can force your body to lie along the surface. Then proceed with the kick, using both legs together, and being specially careful to get the wide, wedge-shaped sweep as they close together.

Remember, too, that the knees must be spread apart when they draw up beneath you.
 Do not be in too much of a hurry to start the full stroke; perfect the separate parts first.

"Y" CONCEDE FIRST GOAL IN POLO LEAGUE

Young Companions Lose By 6 To 1.

CHUNG SING CONCEDED W.O. BY NAVY.

(By CRAWL).

The sensational collapse of the Young Companions' Association against the attack of the Y.M.C.A. "A", to whom they succumbed to the tune of 6 goals to 1, was the outstanding feature of the League Water Polo game yesterday evening at the Chinese Civil Servants' Swimming Club.

The Chung Sing Benevolent Society were awarded two points in the other scheduled game, the Navy team failing to put in an appearance.

Sensation followed sensation, the first being the opening goal by the Young Companions' who took advantage of bad marking by the Y.M.C.A. pivot to open the scoring. Following this Li E. Long was ordered out of the water for a bad tackle inside the two yard mark, and Schreuder equalised from the penalty throw.

GOAL AVERAGE SPOILED

The Young Companions' Association are the first team in the League to have registered a goal against the Y.M.C.A. "A". In doing so they shattered a magnificent goal average, which previous to to-day stood at 36 goals for and 0 against.

Play then became very rough, so much so that the whistle was blown every two or three seconds. Then came the ordering out of the water of five players, Schreuder and Fung Kwok-wa for "hanging round each other's necks," Shek Kam-pui for receiving the ball inside the two yard area, and Gold-man and Zi Ki-yeung for swimming over and shoving off.

Chinese Score First.

The Y.M.C.A. opened the game with a well directed attack which was nullified by the bad shooting of Campbell.

From the goal throw the Young Companions' secured possession, Zi Ki-yeung passing to Shek Kam-pui, who unmarked by Ralton, swam through to score the opening goal of the game amid terrific applause.

From the swim up, Schreuder swam through, but was awarded a penalty by the referee, when Li E. Long fouled him in the two yard area. He scored with ease to level the scores.

"Y" Take Lead.

Just before the interval the "Y" took the lead through Schreuder, who deflected a fine pass by Ralton into the Young Companions' net.

Changing over, the Y.M.C.A. attacked strongly and were almost immediately rewarded through an easy goal by Campbell, who, unmarked, netted easily. Schreuder added the fourth with a characteristic shot, while Ralton provided yet another sensation when he scored a brilliant fifth goal. He swam through, although challenged by four men, to score over the advancing Chan Wah-chiu.

Game Well Controlled

Just before the final whistle Schreuder added the "Y's" sixth goal with a fine back hand, which had Chan Wah-chiu beaten from the moment the ball left Schreuder's hand.

Mr. Ip Kun-ai refereed, a very difficult game in an excellent manner.

Attack On World Record Fails.

London, June 18.

AN attempt to break the British and world's 600 yards flat record in an invitation race at the Civil Service Sports at the White City, London yesterday, was not successful, the high wind and showery weather being against fast times.

The winner was J. V. Powell (London A.C.), who beat F. F. Wolf, a clubmate, by a yard, in 1min. 13.25 sec., 2 sec. outside the record made by D. G. A. Lowe at Stamford Bridge in 1926. T. H. Scrimshaw (Belgrave H.) was third, a yard and a-half away. G. L. Rampling did not start, under doctor's orders.

South China Premier Polo Team To Win

Chung Sing Showing Improvement.

Y.M.C.A. "B" IN ACTION

(By CRAWL)

South China "A", contenders for the Hong Kong League Water Polo championship, are again assured of a comfortable win when they meet the Chung Sing Benevolent Society on their own pitch this evening.

Chung Sing, who have played a four games and who yesterday were conceded a walk-over by the Navy, are a new team, but one which is coming on surprisingly well. They possess some very fast men, but they have yet to perfect their combination and defence, where they are weak.

The Y.M.C.A. "B" and South China "B" meet in their postponed fixture on the latter's pitch, following the other game.

The Y.M.C.A. team, which looks stronger on paper, should register a win.

South China "B" have some very promising men in their team, but they are lacking in stamina to last the full time.

The following are the probable teams—
 South China "A"—Kwok Mok-hoi; Lee Ping-pu and Young Yuen-wai; Wong Suen-man (captain); Chan Shui-kam, Kwok Chun-hang and Cheong Wing-kwong.

Chung Sing B.S.—Tong, Siu-tai; Lam Siu-so and Pun Ping-man; Ip Sum-chung (captain); Cheung Chi-tai, Wong Chik-chow and So Tin-mo.

Y.M.C.A. "B"—S. Fowler, H. J. Lange and E. Jenner (captain); E. Fullager, D. Sutherland, G. Fowler and C. Chadderton. Reserve: F. Fowler.
 South China "B"—Leung Lai-sang; Fo Kim-fook and Tse Kim-hung; Leung Yuen-hung (captain); Wong Siu-chung, Tong Sin-kee and Wong Yi-man.

Ki-yeung; Wong Zi-kwong, Shek Kam-pui and Wo Man-chiu.

BATTLE OF CENTURY

IRISHMAN'S AIM EARLY K.O.

Holder's World Beating Punch For Test.

BERG TO FIGHT ITALIAN IN RETURN BOUT ON THE WHITE CITY CARD.

Jack Petersen, the young Welshman, will enter the ring at the White City to-night a warm favourite for the retention of his British heavyweight boxing championship against the challenge of Jack Doyle, the ex-Irish Guardsman.

London has not shown such excitement over a fight since Primo Carnera, the present world champion, made his debut in the metropolis against Young Stribling two years ago.

Experts are of the opinion that Doyle's only chance will be to go for a quick knock-out. He is, however, being heavily backed in Ireland.

Jeff Dickson, the famous promoter, has granted both men a purse of £5,000. He hopes to recoup himself from the entrance money which he expects will be paid by a crowd of at least 100,000.

Kid Berg, who unsuccessfully challenged Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight championship of the world, is to fight a return bout with Cleto Locatelli, the Italian champion, on the same card.

Berg lost on points to the Italian at the Albert Hall last May.

Petersen in Fine Shape.

Petersen is in perfect condition. A fortnight ago he boxed superbly to outpoint George Cook, the Australian champion, in a bout in which he never took a risk of damaging himself. On May 15 he completely outclassed Heine Muller, a German contender, knocking him out in 130 seconds at Ninian Park.

In his ten big fights last year and this year Petersen has won seven by the knock-out route and the other three on points.

Doyle, who was in France for a month under the watchful eyes of Francois Descamps, Georges Carpentier's old manager, returned to England in splendid condition. In his first bout he knocked out Jack Humbeck, the Belgian veteran, with a left that should cause Petersen trouble. His performance was most impressive and on this score his connections fixed up the fight with Petersen for June 29.

Postponed Fight.

The fight was then postponed until to-night as Doyle was not quite ready on the earlier date.

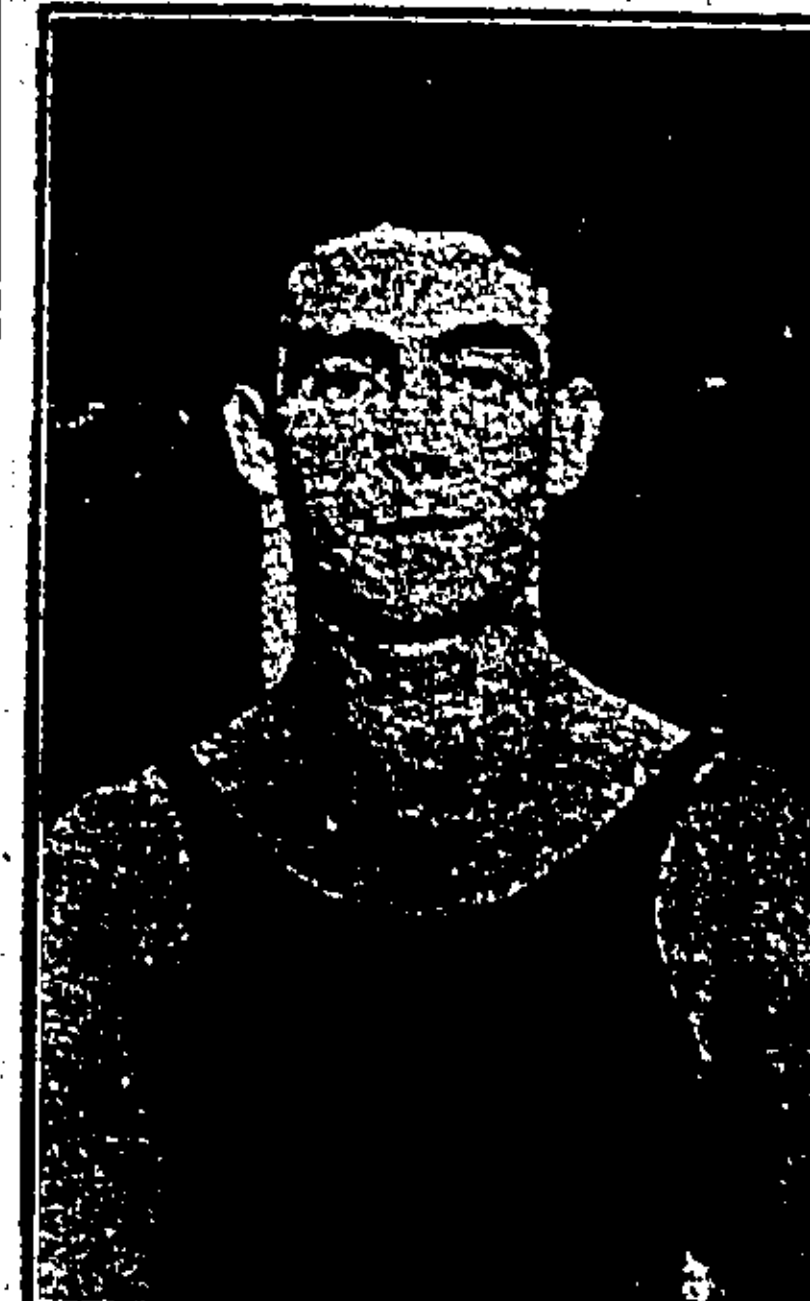

It should be the fight of the century in England—Petersen is a fighter who seeks finally from the first bell and Doyle is to attempt an early knock out.

Though a rugged boxer when he beat Harry Crossley for the title, Petersen has now improved so much that he is said to be without an equal in Britain, while for punching he is considered to be in the first flight in the world.

Doyle, who has only recently turned professional, has won ten successive fights. He has learned to cover himself up better ever since he was under Descamps, and his punching is declared heavier than before he left England. Experts are doubtful, however, whether Doyle can take heavy punishment. So far it has not required an exceptional punch to topple Doyle over. But there can be no question about his courage.

MANCHESTER CITY'S PROFIT

Manchester City made a profit of £2,726 last season chiefly as a result of their increased receipts from the F.A. Cup. Their net income from the Cup was £12,221 and from League matches £23,974. The directors do not propose to pay a dividend this year. Assets are valued at £125,920, but the club was a mortgage of £61,221.

Moses Montefiore

When they arrive in England, Reb Moses Montefiore listened and Reb Moses Montefiore conducted Rabbi Gershon Tanchum first of all over his estates. He shows him his wells of quicksilver, his towns and villages, fields and woods, orchards and vineyards, and he says to him:

"Rabbi, look! Everything you see around you is mine, and more also!"

Rabbi Gershon Tanchum looks and marvels. It has never entered his mind that it is possible for any one man to have so many possessions.

Then Reb Moses Montefiore takes him into the Palace and leads him through all the rooms. Each room more beautiful than the one before, and all ornamented with gold and silver, precious stones and pearls, and hung with costly tapestries. Rabbi Gershon Tanchum looks and marvels. He has never before seen so many beautiful things, not even in his dreams.

Then Reb Moses Montefiore takes him into the largest chamber of all, and it is all lighted up with diamonds and brilliants, and on the ceiling are painted the sun and moon and all the signs of the Zodiac, and they revolve in keeping with the time, and along the whole length of the chamber are tables of silver covered with cloth of gold. And the finest viands are on the tables, and there are crystal flasks filled with the rarest wines. And at the tables are seated on one side the princes, dukes and lords of England, and on the other the wealthiest and the finest Jews of the British Empire. And there are scores of servants attending to their wants. And as soon as Reb Moses Montefiore enters they all jump up from their seats, bow low before him, and cry with one voice:

"Long live our lord, Reb Moses Montefiore."

When Rabbi Gershon Tanchum sees what great honour is being paid to Reb Moses Montefiore he starts shaking all over, and when the servants hand him the finest food he is unable to lift up his spoon, because he is all a-tremble, awed and terrified by the riches, greatness and honour of Reb Moses Montefiore.

After they had eaten, when the princes, dukes and lords had left, Reb Moses Montefiore rose in his place, and said:

"And now, Gershon Tanchum will expound to us the Torah." Rabbi Gershon Tanchum wanted to expound the Torah, but he could not open his mouth for fear. Reb Moses Montefiore reiterated his command: "Rabbi Gershon Tanchum will expound the Torah."

So Rabbi Gershon Tanchum pulled himself together, and began quietly, with a quivering voice, to expound the Torah. And Reb Moses Montefiore listened. And the more he heard the more amazed he was at his immense learning.

And Rabbi Gershon Tanchum pulled himself together again, and suddenly he forgot all about Reb Moses Montefiore's estates. The wells of quicksilver, the fields and woods, the orchards and vineyards all vanished out of his mind, his voice ceased to quiver, and he penetrated into the depths of the great forests of Halacha. And was amazed at the immensity of his wisdom.

And Rabbi Gershon Tanchum pulled himself together again. He forgot the Palace with its ornamented chambers, he forgot the costly food, the princes and the earls, and the honours that were paid to Reb Moses Montefiore. And his voice grew firm and loud, and he soared at ease over the Garden of Eden of the Haggadah. And Reb Moses Montefiore was listening now with fear.

And when Rabbi Gershon Tanchum entirely divested himself of the outside world he rose to the highest peaks of the Torah and descended to its utmost depths, and his face was aflame and his voice thundered. And Reb Moses Montefiore was seized with terror, and could remain seated where he was, and he was all a-tremble, hand and foot.

When the Queen of England had only just ascended the throne, and the coronation had not yet taken place, she arranged a big banquet, and asked to it all the kings and princes throughout the world, in order to get to know them. And she also invited all the great men of her own kingdom, dukes and ministers, and at the head of them all, of course, the chief of her advisers, Reb Moses Montefiore.

When they had all come together at the banquet, and the gathering had become somewhat elevated by reason of the choice wines, the kings began to boast, each about his own kingdom. One boasted of the size of his land, another of its wealth, a third of its power, and the fourth of its wisdom.

And the Tsar of Russia rose up, Nicholas I., and he said: "My country is the greatest in the world. My people is like the sand of the sea for numbers. And my wealth is beyond compute. There is only one trouble. There are a great many Jews in my kingdom, and I can't think how to get rid of them."

Reb Moses Montefiore heard this, and it displeased him. So he went up to Nicholas, and bowed low before him, and said:

"My Lord King, I understand that you are dissatisfied because you have so many Jews in your kingdom. You can get rid of them very easily."

"How?" asked Nicholas. "Very simply. Sell them to me. I shall pay you for every Jewish soul, aged or infant, man or woman, three roubles in cash."

"And you will take the Jews out of my land?"

"I shall not leave one behind." The thought made Nicholas very happy. He would get rid of all the Jews, and he would have a fat sum of money in return. So he immediately assented, and it was arranged that in three months' time Montefiore would come to Russia, pay his money and take away all the Jews.

When he came back to Russia, Nicholas called all his Ministers and Senators and said to them:

"I have made a splendid stroke of business. I have sold all our Jews at three roubles apiece, cash down."

When the Ministers and Senators heard this, they were seized with consternation and cried:

"But, Lord King! What have you done? We are now receiving from every Jew, man, woman or child, an average of forty roubles a year. It will ruin us if you give them away for three."

So Nicholas realised that he had blundered. And he asked what could now be done.

And the Ministers and Senators began to think how to avoid giving up the Jews. Finally one Minister said:

"My Lord King! I have thought of a plan how to keep the Jews here. A Jew is recognised by his long beard and earlocks and his long caftan. Decree that all Jews must cut off their beards and earlocks and wear short coats. And no one will be able to recognise that they are Jews. And when Montefiore comes, hand over to him the want opened the letter he fell down Karaites and say that there are no other Jews in your kingdom."

The plan pleased Nicholas, and he decreed that all Jews must cut off their beards and earlocks and wear short coats. When Reb Moses Montefiore arrived in Petersburg at the time the Queen and told her all that had happened, and went to the Tsar's Palace with his contract, a Minister came out, and said:

"We consider the Karaites as heathens."

ALIENS ON AMERICAN SHIPS.

17,000 British Subjects Shipped.

About 82 per cent of seamen below the grade of licensed officer employed on the American merchant marine are aliens, it is shown by statistics prepared by the Commerce Department's Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection for a recent issue of "Current Shipping Data."

The statistics show that 127,500 native-born American seamen were shipped and reshipped by shipping commissioners and collectors and deputy collectors of customs on American merchant vessels during the year ended June 30, 1932.

In the same period, 34,000 fully naturalized citizens and 76,500 aliens were shipped and reshipped. Assistant Director A. J. Tyrer of the Bureau pointed out that these figures do not indicate the number of seamen employed during the year, as they include the reshipment of the same seamen. But he said, however, that the figures gave a clear indication of the percentage of aliens, naturalized citizens and native Americans, respectively, employed in the merchant marine.

According to the statistics, about 17,000 British subjects were shipped and reshipped during the year. Germans and Spaniards were second and third, with about 1,100 seamen shipped and reshipped. Filipinos, Norwegians and South Americans were the next most numerous, with less than 8,000 shipped and reshipped during the year.

In addition to the detailed statistics indicating the nationality of seamen, the monthly issues of "Current Shipping Data" contain the most important features of several publications formerly published by the Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection.

Among these are statistics on current shipbuilding, contracts awarded, records of vessels re-constructed, changes of vessels names, record of ownership changes and detailed figures on losses and abandonments.

WARSHIPS IN PORT.

The following British and foreign men-o-war were in port yesterday—

Basin—Tamar.
S. Wall—Wren.
E. Wall—Olympus & Perseus.
N. Arm—Whitehall.
Dock—Parthian.
U.S.S.—Mindanao.

real Jews, and there are no other Jews in our kingdom. If you wish, take the Karaites and pay according to their number."

Reb Moses Montefiore realised at once that they did not want to let the Jews go. And he became very angry, and went back home.

He stopped for the Sabbath in Vilna. At that time Count Potocki was Governor of Vilna. And when he got to know that Reb Moses Montefiore had come, he went to welcome him.

Reb Moses Montefiore received him with great honour. As they sat there talking a rider arrived from Petersburg and handed Reb Moses Montefiore a sealed letter from Petersburg. Reb Moses Montefiore took the letter, examined it, and put it down on the table.

Count Potocki was amazed. "Why don't you open it?" he cried. "The respect due to royalty requires that the Tsar's letter should be opened immediately."

To this Reb Moses Montefiore replied:

"I cannot unseal the letter, because it is forbidden on the Sabbath."

So Count Potocki took the letter, and wanted to open it. But Reb Moses Montefiore stopped him, and said:

"You are a great lord, and you are, moreover, my guest. I cannot allow you to open my letters for me."

So Count Potocki called one of his servants and told him to open the letter, and as soon as the servant opened the letter he fell down dead, because the letter was poisoned.

When Reb Moses Montefiore saw that he ordered his coach to be off his back and earlocks and wear short coats. When he came home, he found himself on his knees before the Queen and told her all that had happened. The Queen was furious, and declared war on Nicholas.

That was how the Crimean War began.

SHIPBUILDING DEAD
Silent Slipways and Yards At Singapore.
Singapore.
Out on the headland of Tanjong Rhu there are empty and silent slipways and shipbuilding yards which tell of a trade which in recent years has almost died in Singapore.
Singapore has never risen to fame as a shipbuilding centre. Her chief importance is as a clearing station for the merchant vessels of the nations, but there was at one time quite a lot of work done at Tanjong Rhu in the construction of small vessels for local trading, private use and so on.
To-day the only work that is being done there is repair work, and the construction of small boats, like the yachts for the Johore Yacht Club.
Shipbuilding locally began to decline very soon after the depression made itself felt in 1929. Money began to get scarce, and people who were then contemplating the construction of small craft decided to postpone the work.
Now, of course, there are numerous ships laid up in the harbour, and trade has dwindled to such an extent that no new ships are required.

IMPOSSIBLE WAR DEBT CONTRACT
We are therefore faced with a paradoxical situation, in which we cannot have the means of payment, a revival of international trade, so long as the obligation to pay is maintained.
Another tragic paradox is that when the world was prosperous it would have involved comparatively little sacrifice on America's part to forgo a claim which did not seem to weigh heavily on the world's economy; now, when the need for a readjustment has become imperative, and is recognised as such among all authorities even in America, the political difficulty of making a sacrifice which must add to immediate Budget troubles is at its maximum.
The British Government, solidly supported by all informed opinion in this country, has made it clear beyond doubt or cavil that in its view a sine qua non for the stabilisation of currencies, for the revival of confidence, and for all the major aims of the Conference is a revision of the problem must be faced and settled. Implicit in that problem is the question whether the international credit system can continue to exist. If political debts are maintained, private international debts will not be paid, because the machinery of payment will not be set in motion.
The attempt to enforce an impossible law, as America knows, leads to lawlessness and brings all law into contempt. Insistence on a contract on which all credit rests, and incidentally it will frustrate the Conference.
Now, of course, there are numerous ships laid up in the harbour, and trade has dwindled to such an extent that no new ships are required.

TAX COLLECTORS ATTACKED.
Novel Scheme For Their Abolition.
Istanbul.
Abolish tax collectors, make people go to the Town Hall to pay their taxes, and send a squad of drummers to beat drums outside their houses if they don't pay.
This is a novel suggestion which is being considered here.
In practice it would work as follows:—
If anyone were three months late paying his taxes, six men would visit his house. Unless the money were immediately forthcoming, they would beat their drums loudly outside his door for one hour.
After three days, should the taxes still not have been paid, bailiffs would be entitled to force an entry, and seize and sell the furniture.
There is, however, some opposition to such drastic methods of collecting taxes:
1. Many tax-collectors would be out of jobs.
2. Neighbours may object to their peace being disturbed by continual drumming.
3. It is also asked whether the authorities possess sufficient drums?—Reuter.

NO NEW RUBBER PROPOSALS.

Colonial Secretary's Report.

London, To-day.
The Colonial Secretary, Sir Philip Cunliffe List, stated in the House of Commons yesterday that no further proposals on the subject of rubber had been made to the British Government since March of last year when the joint British-Dutch investigations led to the conclusion that it was impossible under the existing conditions to frame and operate an international scheme guaranteeing effective regulation of production or export of rubber. The Committee of the World Conference had already given careful consideration to the general conditions requisite if the scheme for co-ordination of production was to be practicable, Sir Philip concluded.—British Wireless Service.

SPANISH SUBSIDY FOR ORANGES.

Madrid.
Parliament here has voted in favour of the payment by the Spanish Government of a premium on each half case of oranges shipped to England. This step is being taken to meet the competition from British products in the market, which, it is declared, has been greatly facilitated as a result of the Ottawa agreement. In view of the success of the campaign for this form of subsidy by the orange growers, the exporters of potatoes are now starting a similar campaign in the hope that potatoes shipped to England will similarly be helped in their sale by the Spanish Exchequer.—Reuter.

JAPAN EMPRESS TO BE MOTHER

Baby Expected In January.

Tokyo.
The imperial household ministry has announced that our physicians believed the Japanese empress might become a mother again in a few months, officials indicating the baby was expected about January. On the advice of physicians, the empress shortly is going to Haya-ma to spend the summer quietly at the imperial villa on the seashore there. Emperor Hirohito and the empress still lack a son to inherit the throne, and for this reason the court and nation have long been hoping for the birth of a male child. Married to the Princess Nagako Kuni in 1924 when he was regent, Emperor Hirohito is the father of three living children, while another died. The latest child, Princess Atsuko, was born March 7, 1931. The heir presumptive is Prince Yasuhito Chichibu, the emperor's brother.

MAYOR DEFENDS ROMANCE.

"Necking" Allowed At Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Arkansas.
Romantic couples seeking the seclusion of the city's shady streets will not be disturbed. It has been so ordered by the Mayor. When the City Council took up citizens' complaints that they wanted more street lights and less "necking" (cuddling) by amorous couples in their neighbourhoods, the Mayor came to the defense of Romance. "Don't let us do anything to interfere with romance" he said. "Remember, this is a resort town and we cater to visitors. Our young residents too, must enjoy the same privileges. If they want to 'neck' that should be considered their business and we should give them our blessing."—Reuter.

Always have GARDAN in the house!

In the tropics pain and illness are particularly liable to appear suddenly. In headache, toothache, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, muscular pains, and above all in fever and its accompanying symptoms, GARDAN is of definite value. When you are out of sorts remember:

GARDAN

prevents and stops pain
